BEVERLY HILLS STREET - NIGHT

It is late night, and deserted. Engine noise approaches; headlights appear; as the car draws closer we hear singing.

It is a Mercedes convertible and as it roars by, the sloppy baritone and a giggling soprano -- whooishes by it.

We hold as another car approaches. This one is a conservative sedan, whose occupant does not sing.

INSIDE THE CONVERTIBLE

The middle-aged driver is in a tuxedo with a rumpled shirt and cocked bow tie. He is flushed, a Rogue forelock bouncing over his forehead, and he merrily sings "Casey Jones" with the passenger, a young woman in a party dress who squeals, rocks with the motion of the car, and enthusiastically pipes in on the chorus.

ANOTHER EMPTY STREET

The convertible makes a hot turn onto the street and approaches with its singing.

REVERSE

The car enters and roars away. After a beat of quiet, the conservative sedan enters and recedes.

BEACH

We are at the Malibu Guest Quarters Motel. The singing, squealing Mercedes screeches into the lot and rocks to a halt.
The young woman staggers out still giggling, and holding a half-empty bottle of champagne.
The man tosses her a key with a large plastic tag.

    MAN Number Seven.

She trots away.

The man twists his rear-view mirror to look at himself. He straightens his bow tie. He puffs his bounding forelock one finger, nods his head to make it bounce, grins approvingly, and cocks a pistol-finger at his own reflection.

    MAN Zing!

Motel Room

The man enters and looks around. The young woman's dress is tossed onto the bed but she is nowhere to be seen. The man pulls an imaginary train whistle.

    MAN Choo! Choo!...

He looks around, in a closet, under the bed.

    MAN
    I'm a locomotive, baby! I'm the Wabash cannonball! I'm a hunka-hunka burninnnn' love! I got fire in my boiler and a fuh -- a fuh --

He is reacting to a long leg which pokes out from behind the window curtain.

A salacious smile spreads across his lips. He pulls on the cord to draw back the curtain and reveal the young woman in red panties and a bra and a saucily cocked conductor's cap.

    YOUNG WOMAN
    Tickets, please.

The man is stripping off his clothes.

    MAN
Excuse me, Miss, is this the train to Ecstasy?

YOUNG WOMAN
Pull in your ears, Rexie -- you're comin' to a tunnel!

Rex lunges at the young woman and they tumble onto the bed just as --

CRASH -- the door is kicked open and a short stocky black man built like a bulldog and wearing a porkpie hat rushes into the room with a video camera glued to his eye. He looks like Clarence Thomas with a mustache.

MAN
I'm gonna nail your ass!

The young woman screams, clutching the sheets to her naked bosom. Rex leaps from the bed, still clad only in his chemindefer boxers, and darts around the room seeking egress.

The man with the video charges around the room following Rex

THE VIDEO IMAGE
Rex is stumbling around the room in a panic, looking for his clothing. The camera swish-pans back to the young woman screaming in the bed.

MAN
I'm gonna nail your ass!!

We swish-pan back to Rex as he bends over to pick up his trousers, mooning us.

MAN
I'm gonna nail your ass!

PULL BACK FROM THE VIDEO IMAGE
To reveal that we are in the detective -- Gus Petch's -- office.

GUS
I nailed his ass.

Faintly, from the television monitor we hear screaming and mayhem.

WOMAN'S VOICE Trains...
Watching the monitor, MARYLIN REXROTH is a sensual beauty, with intelligence and class. She watches the monitor without expression.

MARYLIN
...I thought he'd outgrown trains.

Gus Petch sits behind a desk.

GUS
They never grow-up, lady. They just get tubby. Me, I've always had ample proportions. But it's all muscle -- I'm hard as a rock. I'm not one of these cream puff sit-behind-a-desk private dicks; I'm an assnailer

MARYLIN
So I see.

Faintly, from the monitor:

VOICE
I'm gonna nail your ass.

We hear the Young Woman SQUEAL. Marylin reacts.

MARYLIN
Hard to believe that's the best he could do.

GUS
Probably you're the best he could do.

MARYLIN
Oh. Thank you.

GUS
You're takin' it pretty well. I seen 'em weep like they'd hired me to prove their husbands weren't fooling around. And I seen 'em celebrate. Like I just handed 'em a winning lottery ticket.

Marylin turns her attention back to the screen.

MARYLIN
I'm just enjoying the movie.

TRACKING SHOT
All from the perspective of a moving automobile.

The moving shots show mansions, palm trees, boutiques; we pass joggers, strolling businessmen holding cellular to their ears, male models working as waiters at sidewalk cafes, young women on roller blades who turn, smile, and wave at the camera. It is la dolce vita Los Angeles style.

THE DRIVER

A handsome, fortyish man in a town car talks into cellular phone. This is MILES MASSEY.

MILES

-- hello Marjory, any messages? Yeah? Yeah. Yeah. Have Wrigley look up Oliphant v. Oliphant for its relevance to the Chapman filing. She took the kids where? Tahoe? Which side of Tahoe. Great. If the cruise goes all the way around the lake, she left the state and she's in breach. She can't leave the state. Tell Wrigley to prepare a filing to attach everything. Primary residence, autos, stocks...

(Beat)

Sure. Put him through.

(Beat)

Hello Ross. What? She's sleeping with the nanny? Well, you're separated. She can sleep with -- is this the one you slept with? Oh. A guy? Interesting career choice. Hmmm? Yes. I know you want her dead. Everyone in your tax bracket wants their ex wives dead.

EXT. BEVERLY HILLS MANSE

Rex is trying his key in the front door of his house. Finding it doesn't, work he rattles the knob, then leans on the doorbell.

We hear distant chimes.

REX

Honey! ...Honey?!

Finally, through the intercom:

MARYLIN

Rex. Get away from the door.

REX

Look, Marylin, can't we have a civilized discussion about this?

MARYLIN

We are. And it's winding down.
REX
But Marylin, you know a divorce would ruin me right now. Everything I have -- everything we have -- is tied up in my business. The business is my entire life.

MARYLIN
Are you forgetting about the Atcheson, Topeka and the Santa Fe?

REX
Marylin?

MARYLIN
Rex. Go away. I don't want to have to sic the dogs on you.

REX Dogs?

From inside the house we hear the menacing sound of LARGE DOGS BARKING.

LETTERING
On an interior wall; it says MASSEY, MEYERSON, SLOAN & GURALNICK.

A pull back shows that we are in a waiting room, and a receptionist leans over her partition to chirp at Rex Rexroth.

RECEPTIONIST
Mr. Massey will be right with you.

INT. MASSEY MEYERSON CONFERENCE ROOM - DAY

Miles addresses a group of young Attorneys at the firm.

MILES
The problem is that everyone is willing to compromise. That's the problem with the institution of marriage -- it's based on compromise. Even through its dissolution. One attorney will try to score some points, the opposition will try to impeach. The process will find an equilibrium point determined by the skill of the opposing lawyers, and then each party will walk away with their portion of the "goodies." Some say, "Life is compromise." But at Massey Myerson we believe life is struggle and the ultimate destruction of your opponent.

The Receptionist pokes her head into the conference room.

RECEPTIONIST
Your eleven o'clock is here.

MILES
Ladies and Gentlemen -- we will continue this at the Associates Meeting next Friday. In the meantime, I want you to consider this... Ivan the Terrible, Henry the VIII, Attila the Hun -- what did they have in common?

As he exits.

ASSOCIATE Middle names?

MILES MASSEY'S OFFICE
You may have seen it in the issue before last of "World Interiors." There's a Rothko on the wall, an Elle Bleu humidor on the desk, peonies in the vase, and the diploma is from Yale.

MILES
Mr. Rexroth.

REX
Rex, please.

MILES
Miles Massey. Please sit, relax, and consider this office your office, your haven, your war room -- for the duration of the campaign.

REX
Thank you.

MILES Now Rex.

He leans back in the leather executive chair behind his desk, makes a steeple of his fingers, and dons his look of deepest concern.

MILES
-- Tell me your troubles.

Rex, nervous, laughs ruefully.

REX
Jeez. Where do I start?

Miles gives an encouraging, rueful smile in return.

REX
...Well, my wife has me between a
That's her job. You have to respect that.

MILES

When I first met Marylin -- Well, we were crazy about each other. Not emotionally, of course. We just couldn't keep our hands off each other.

MILES

Mm.

REX

But then... But then...

Quietly.

MILES

Time marches on. Ardor cools.

REX

No. Not exactly. It didn't exactly cool. Marylin is a knock-out. And very sexy -- but -- there's a lot of it out there.

MILES

Ah.

REX

You know what I mean when I say "it."

MILES

Gotcha. No need to get anatomically correct with me, Rex.

REX

Seems like there's more of it than ever before --

MILES

Well, with the expanding global population -- Let me ask you this -- your wife. Has she pursued the opportunities which must present themselves to the "knock-out, sexy woman" you described?

REX

I don't know. I can assume...

MILES

Not in court you can't. Has she retained counsel?

REX

I'm not sure.
MILES
And your wife is aware of or has evidence of your activities?

REX Video.

MILES
Mmm... And to cut to the chase, forensically speaking -- is there a pre-nup?

Rex hangs his head.

Miles sighs sympathetically.

MILES
The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars, but in ourselves. Well, let me ask you this: what kind of settlement do you seek? What are, for you, the parameters of the possible?

REX
That's the problem. I can't afford to give her anything.

MILES
Nothing?

REX
I know that sounds rough but I'm about to close on a deal to develop some mini-malls, and I'm mortgaged up to my ass. If this deal goes south, I'm ruined -- I'll lose millions.

MILES
So, you propose that in spite of demonstrable infidelity on your part, your unoffending wife should be tossed out on her ear?

REX
Well -- is that possible?

Miles smiles at him.

EXT. RUNNING PATH - SAN VICENTE BLVD. - MORNING

Marylin power walks along the San Vicente Bike Path with her friends SARAH SORKIN and RAMONA BARCELONA. It's early, but the path is crowded with bikers, bladers, runners, power walkers, wheelchair racers etc. Ramona pushes her infant in a baby jogger.
SARAH
You want to come out to the beach house tomorrow?

MARYLIN
I didn't know Barry had a beach house.

SARAH
Neither did I until my lawyer found it -- quite a paper trail -- he had it in the dog's name.

RAMONA
(To Marylin)
So who'd you hire?

MARYLIN
Ruth Rabino.

SARAH
She's a legend. Didn't she do Kravis or a Pearlman? She definitely did a Factor.

MARYLIN
She did a Harriman.

SARAH Wow.

MARYLIN
In the words of my Private Investigator, we're going to nail his ass.

RAMONA
I've been trying to nail George's for years, but he's very careful. I'll just keep having children. I think I'm pregnant, by the way.

SARAH
Ramona! Don't get Mia Farrow on us.

RAMONA
Three is not Farrow.

SARAH
Who's Rex's guy?

MARYLIN Miles Massey.

SARAH
Of Massey Myerson?

MARYLIN
Do you know him?

SARAH
By reputation. He got Ann Rumsey that cute little island of George's.

RAMONA
George was so impressed he hired him when he divorced his second.

SARAH Muriel Rumsey.

MARYLIN
Who's she?

SARAH
Now? She's a night manager at McDonalds.

RAMONA
You should have tried to get pregnant Marylin -- solidify your position.

MARYLIN
No.

RAMONA
You like kids.

MARYLIN
I can't have a baby with a man I don't love... And I can't submit a child to divorce.

SARAH
It's not so bad these days. Kids like joint custody. Two sets of toys.

RAMONA
Maybe next time.

MARYLIN
Maybe.

SARAH
We do have a man for you.

RAMONA
Thorstenson Gieselensen. He just separated from his third. He's in fish. He is fish.

SARAH
She's keeping his name. And one of his planes. And all seven of his children

RAMONA
And only two are hers.

MARYLIN
Please. I'm not seeing anyone until this is over. One husband at a time.
SARAH
I wish I had your discipline.

A COURTROOM
We are close on the person on the witness stand, a woman in her 60's.

LAWYER
Mrs. Guttman, you have testified that you were your husband's sexual slave for thirty-six years, ever since you were married --

WITNESS
Except for two years when he was in the Navy, in Korea.

LAWYER
Prior to your marriage, what was your profession?

WITNESS
I was a hostess. For Trans-World Airlines.

LAWYER
What is your husband's profession?

WITNESS
He manufactures staples and industrial brad-tacks. He's very successful.

JUMP BACK
At the counsel's table in the foreground Miles chats, voice lowered with Wrigley, a boyish, bespectacled junior associate. Beyond them we see the woman on the witness stand continuing her testimony.

WRIGLEY
Wait... He wants to give her...?

MILES Nothing.

WRIGLEY
And she has...?

MILES Video.

WRIGLEY
What the fuck...?

Miles turns to Wrigley with a look of indignation. He gestures to their surroundings.

MILES

Wrigley!

WRIGLEY

Sorry.

MILES

Sometimes I have serious doubts about you.

WRIGLEY

I am very sorry.

MILES

Am I mentoring the wrong mentee?

WRIGLEY

No. You're not.

MILES

I could be mentoring Kramer. Kramer clerked for Scalia.

Wrigley looks suicidal.

BACKGROUND LAWYER (O.S.)

Couldn't you simply walk away from this abusive relationship?

WOMAN

No, he had the videos...

MILES

Anyway, I need a challenge. This --

He waves dismissively at the courtroom.

MILES

-- is not a challenge. I need something I can sink my teeth into, professionally speaking.

WOMAN

He would invite these girls home from the staple factory to our condominium in Palm Springs. He had a device he called the Intruder.

JUDGE

Mr. Massey! I ask again, if you have any questions for the complainant.

MILES

I'm sorry, your honor, I was just conferring with my associate...

He rises.

MILES
Now then, Mrs. Guttman. Do you know a gentleman named Morris Rudnick?

MRS. GUTTMAN

Well, yes, Morris is my accountant.

MILES

(sadly)

Accountant.

He reaches back and Wrigley puts a manila file in his hand.

MILES

We would like to offer these photographs into evidence...

WAITING ROOM - MASSEY MEYERSOHN

The receptionist leans over her partition to chirp at her attorney Ruth Rabinow. Ruth is a sturdy woman in late 60's. If Mrs. Guttman had gone to law school...

RECEPTIONIST

Mr. Massey will see you now.

CONFERENCE ROOM

In the middle of the Massy Meyerson conference table is a large fruit and pastry plate.

The door swings open. Miles rises.

MILES

...Ruth!

They shake hands.

MILES

-- Ruth Rabinow, this is Rex Rexroth. And you must be Mrs. Rexroth.

MARYLIN

And you must be Mr. Massey.

They appraise each other for a beat. They are impressed and, they are impressive. As they settle in:

MARYLIN

(Sadly)

Hello, Rex.

REX

Marylin.

MARYLIN

Are you alright? You lost weight.
REX
My whole metabolism is -- off.

Miles has been staring at Marylin. She notices this, and smiles shyly. He snaps out of it.

MILES
So, Ruth. How's Sam?

RUTH
Sam is Sam. He's taking up fly fishing. He's in a yert in Montana.

MILES
A yert.

(To Rex)
Ruth is a living legend, Rex. At a time when most women are in Boca, having early bird specials -- she's working so her husband can be in Montana. In a yert.

REX
What's a yert?

RUTH (Dryly)
I ran into your mother at the radiologist last week.

MILES
What?!

RUTH
Oh, just a routine mammogram. She said to say hello. She's going to Positano with your brother's family.

A tight, terse smile from Miles.

MILES
How nice.

MARYLIN
Positano is beautiful. Remember when we were there, Rex? We stayed in the Santo Pietro? That hotel on the cliff?

REX Yeah.

They drift for a moment.

RUTH
So, Miles. If you have a proposal, let's hear it.

MILES
At this point my client is still prepared to consider reconciliation.
RUTH
My client has ruled that out.

MILES
My client is prepared to entertain an amicable dissolution of the marriage without prejudice.

RUTH
That's delusional.

MILES
My client proposes a thirty day cooling off period.

RUTH
My client feels sufficiently dispassionate.

MILES
My client asks that you not initiate proceedings pending his setting certain affairs in order.

RUTH Ha Ha.

MILES
(conceding the point)
Heh heh.

REX
What's so goddamn funny?

Miles lays a hand on his arm.

MILES
Please -- let me handle this.

He puts the clipboard away and looks carefully at Ruth.

MILES
-- So much for the icebreakers.
What're you after, Ruth?

RUTH
My client is prepared to settle for fifty percent of the marital assets.

MILES
Why only fifty percent, Ruth? Why not ask for a hundred percent?

RUTH
Oh brother. Here we go.

MILES
Why not a hundred and fifty percent?

RUTH
Yes. Maybe you're right, Miles. Maybe we're being too conservative. Seventy five percent.

Rex winces. Rubs his stomach. Marylin leans forward and whispers to him.

MARYLIN
Do you need a Tagamet?

REX
You have some?

She removes a pack of the tablets from her purse, along with several vials of prescription drugs.

MARYLIN
These are yours.

MILES
Not according to Mrs. Rabinow.

She hands the pills to a grateful Rex. Their hands touch for a moment.

MARYLIN
Have you been taking your digestive enzymes?

REX (Contrite)
Sometimes I forget.

She looks at him like a concerned parent. Miles and Ruth watch the interaction.

MARYLIN
(To the attorneys)
I'm sorry. Where were we?

RUTH
We were about to request the primary residence, and thirty percent of the remaining assets.

MILES
Are you familiar with Kirshner?

RUTH
Kirshner does not apply. Kirshner was in Kentucky.

REX
What's Kirshner?

MILES
Please -- let me handle this. Okay, Ruth, forget Kirshner -- what's your bottom line?
RUTH
The primary residence and FORTY percent of the remaining assets.
You're becoming tedious Miles.

REX
Aren't we going in the wrong direction?

MILES
Shhh. Please. Let me do my job.
(To Ruth)
Buy a clue, Ruthie. Have you forgotten about Kirshner?

Ruth stands and closes her attaché case.

RUTH
See you at the preliminary.

Miles calls to Ruth's retreating back.

MILES
Fine. We'll eat all the pastry.

Going through the door, Ruth doesn't react, but Marylin following, glances back -- bemused, but with a trace of a smile.

Rex swallows two more tablets. He sits, looking despondent.

MILES
I think that went as well as could be expected.

REX
She always looked out for me.

MILES
And she had private investigators assisting her.

REX (Sentimental)
She brought my digestive enzymes.

MILES
In anticipation of making you sick.

REX
Maybe I should reconsider my...

Miles looks at him. Shakes his head, sadly.

MILES
A superficial display of marital solicitude, and you lose your resolve? Rex. I underestimated you. But I'm your attorney, and if you choose to reward her for that mediocre charade of spousal concern...

He shrugs, helplessly.

REX
You're right. Screw her.

INT. GYM - CLOSE ON

A woman walking across a gymnasium floor. Suddenly, she's assaulted by a huge, grotesquely garbed assailant. His sweats barely cover his massive, overdeveloped musculature. On his head, a ski mask stretches over a padded football helmet. He grabs the woman, yanks her back towards him. She reacts swiftly. With a ferocious "NO," she stomps on his foot, and smashes him in the face. The mugger raises his hands in a gesture of submission.

APPLAUSE

We pull back and see that we are in a Self Defense Class. Two instructors, two "muggers" and ten women students all wearing T-shirts with the words IMPACT-Personal Safety. Marylin and Sarah sit against the wall.

MARYLIN
I don't know what his game is. He dismissed every one of Ruth's proposals. And Sarah, we weren't unreasonable.

SARAH
Well what does he want?

MARYLIN
I don't know. Ruth kept her cool, but I could tell she was surprised.

SARAH
He has a reputation for being tough.

Marylin watches as a new "victim" begin her walk across the gym.

MARYLIN (Grinning) Lilly's up.

SARAH Oh, God!

The mugger emerges from his station and makes his way toward the "victim." She glances over her shoulder, and at the sight of the monster bearing down on her, screams and runs to the exit. Marylin and Sarah giggle, but reproachful looks from the other students force them to affect concerned looks.

MARYLIN
(Whispers)
Every week --

SARAH
I'm dying.

The two Instructors and the Mugger try to coax the sobbing woman back into the room. They clasp her in an empathic group hug.

MARYLIN
Anyway, even Rex seemed perplexed by his intransigence. If I didn't know better, I'd swear Massey had some personal investment in my ruination.

SARAH
So where are you now?

MARYLIN
Well, if he continues to maintain this position -- we're in court.

SARAH Shit.

MARYLIN
Get this! He called and invited me to dinner.

Marylin.

The INSTRUCTOR, a vivacious phys ed major, approaches Marylin.

INSTRUCTOR
Marylin? Ready.

MARYLIN
Huh? Oh, yeah. Sure.

Marylin gets up and coolly walks to center stage, passing the traumatized Lilly.

SARAH
That's completely odd.

Marylin begins the Victim walk. The Mugger quickly moves up from the rear.

MARYLIN (To Sarah)
I know. That's why I accepted. Find out what's up with this clown.
The Mugger is upon her. He grabs her hair. She stomps his foot, and smoothly wheels around SMASHING him in the nose with her elbow, while KNEEING HIM in the groin.

The women Cheer.

INSTRUCTOR
That was excellent, Marylin. But you forgot to yell "no."

MARYLIN
Ah.
(Calmly, to the Mugger)
No.

TO:

ELEGANT RESTAURANT - EVENING
Miles rises from his seat as Marylin enters.

MILES
Mrs. Rexroth. Thank you for coming.
The Maitre d' is pulling out a chair for her.

MARYLIN
I have to admit. I was curious. And hungry.

MAITRE D'
Something to start? Some wine, perhaps?
Miles glances at the wine list.

MILES French?
(She smiles)
Bordeaux? Hmmm. Chateau Margaux '57.
Miles nods at the maitre d' who returns the nod and withdraws.

MARYLIN
I assume this is on Rex?

MILES
Isn't everything?
Miles regards her.

MARYLIN
"Dismiss your vows, your feigned tears, your flattery, for where a heart is hard, they make no battery."

Miles leans back, props his chin on one fist, and considers her.

MILES Simon & Garfunkel?

She laughs.

MILES
Do you have a hard heart, Marylin.

MARYLIN
Did you see the tape?

MILES
Not yet.

MARYLIN
See the tape. Then we can discuss my heart.

A waiter appears and pour a taste of wine which Miles sips and -- He nods at the waiter who pours two glasses.

MARYLIN
Tell me Mr. Massey. What was your performance about this afternoon?

MILES
What does your lawyer think?

MARYLIN
Ruth says you've been too successful, that you're bored, complacent, and you're on your way down.

MILES
But you don't agree?

MARYLIN
How do you know?

MILES
Why would you be here?

MARYLIN
I told you. I was hungry.

FLAP a menu enters frame. It is handed to Marylin; another is handed to Miles.

MILES
I'll have the tournedos of beef. And the lady will have the same?
(To Marylin)
I assume you're a carnivore.
MARYLIN
I know you do.

She addresses the waiter.

MARYLIN
Risotto with white truffles, please.

Miles looks at her with appreciation.

MILES
"Who ever lov'd that lov'd not at first sight?"

MARYLIN
You didn't ask me here to pick me up. You could get in trouble for that.

MILES
Not really. You're not my client. Freedom of association. Big issue with the First Amendment fans. Want to go to Hawaii for the weekend?

MARYLIN
Have you ever been married, Miles?

MILES No.

MARYLIN
You don't believe in it.

MILES
As a matter of fact, I'm a huge fan.

MARYLIN
You just haven't met the right person.

MILES
No. I haven't. Have you?

She regards him for a moment.

MARYLIN
All right, Miles. Let me tell you everything you THINK you know. I was married to Rex for a long time. I was an excellent wife, a partner, a lover, a hostess and a friend. There was only one thing I did wrong during the five years we were together. I got five years older. Think he should be able to ditch me for that?

MILES
He wants a reconciliation.

MARYLIN
See the tape. Then we can discuss reconciliation. Rex screwed up and I nailed his ass. Now I'm going to have it mounted and have my girlfriends over to throw darts at it. Then I'm getting on with my life. That's all I'm after.

MILES Gotcha.

MARYLIN
What is it you're after, Miles?

MILES
Oh, I'm a lot like you -- just looking for an ass to mount.

MARYLIN
Well, don't look at mine!

VOICE (O.S.)
Oyez. Oyez. Family court for the fifth district of Los Angeles County is now in session.

COURT ROOM
A large black woman in judicial robes and raiment enters from behind the Solomonic Platform.

CLERK
-- The Honorable Marva Munson presiding. All rise.

Massey, Wrigley, and Rex Rexroth in between, rise. Rex and Wrigley remain respectfully standing, facing forward, as they whisper out of the side of their mouths:

REX
Have you sat before her before?

Wrigley considers.

WRIGLEY
-- the judge sits. We argue. We argue before her. She sits before us.

REX
Okay. Has she sat before you before?

WRIGLEY
You can't sit before her. That's the rule! She sits before we argue!

Miles glances over and hisses:

MILES Shut! Up!
A GAVEL CRASHES

LATER

We are on a close lateral track of the jurors faces as they sit, with earphones on, in the darkened courtroom, illuminated by a flickering TV monitor.

Leaking tinnily through the headsets we hear a very faint:

VOICE
I'm gonna nail your ass.

The track ends over at Marylin's table, where Marylin also wearing headphones, looks on with studied stoicism. Ruth lays a consoling hand on her shoulder.

LATER

Marylin Rexroth now struggles to maintain her composure on the witness stand. She is modestly dressed and her attitude is one of shocked, wounded innocence.

MARYLIN
I was devastated. Of course.

RUTH
Thank you, Mrs. Rexroth.

JUDGE
Mr. Massey, any questions?

Miles soberly rises.

MILES Mmmm --

He paces, hands clasped behind his back, affecting to be lost in thought.

Marylin watches him.

Finally Miles, still pacing, declaims:

MILES
"Dismiss your vows, your feigned tears, your flattery, for where a heart is hard, they make no battery..."

Marylin looks up from her handkerchief with a look of startled a irritation. Miles stops pacing and turns to face her with a faint smile.
MILES
Do you know those lines, Mrs. Rexroth?

Marylin examines him with guarded eyes. Ruth sensing something unscripted going on, tries to cut it off.

RUTH
Objection, your honor!

JUDGE Grounds?

RUTH
Uh... poetry recitation.

MILES
Let me rephrase. Mrs. Rexroth, how high is that wall around your heart?

Marylin eyes him suspiciously.

RUTH
Your honor, this is harassment! And frankly it's still a little...

She flutters one hand.

RUTH
...arty farty!

MILES
Rephrase. Mrs. Rexroth, have you ever been in love?

Marylin hesitates, gives a "what does this mean look" to Ruth. She returns a "beats me."

MARYLIN
Yes. I loved my husband, Rex.

MILES
And you've always loved him?

Smiles slips out:

MARYLIN
"Who ever lov'd that lov'd not at first sight?"

Miles returns a fleeting smile.

MILES
And you hoped to spend the rest of your life with him?

MARYLIN
Yes. Why is that so difficult for you to understand?
She looks at Rex with tender sorrow.

MARYLIN
Rex was -- is -- a very appealing man. I am sorry I couldn't...
(Tearing up)
I tried my best.

Miles almost smiles. She's good.

MILES
That'll be all Mrs. Rexroth. Please forgive me for causing you additional anguish.
(To the Judge)
Thank you, Your Honor. No further questions.

A Bailiff offers to help Marylin off the stand. She politely and courageously declines.

JUDGE
Who's next, Mrs. Rabinow.

RUTH
We rest, Your Honor.

JUDGE
Mr. Massey?

MILES
Yes, Your honor. I call Patricia Kennedy DeCordoba Isenberg.

BAILIFF
Patricia Kennedy DeCordoba Isenberg.

Marylin, in the process of reseating herself behind her table, pauses.
Ruth notices this and leans in.

RUTH Who's that?

MARYLIN
Jesus.

An attractive woman in her mid fifties advances to be sworn. She was a beauty, but her glory days are past and she's not taking it well. She looks tense and slightly hypo-manic. She speaks in a breathy, giggly voice, and smiles frequently for no apparent reason.

BAILIFF
Mrs. Isenberg.

PATRICIA

Banderas.

BAILIFF

Mrs. Banderas, do you solemnly swear that the testimony you are about to give shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth so help you God?

PATRICIA

Yes, Mr. Bailiff. I do.

MILES

Now, Mrs. Banderas. What is your relationship to Mrs. Rexroth.

PATRICIA

We don't have much of a relationship anymore. I haven't seen her since before she married Rex. We had some very nice times prior to that. We were quite close.

RUTH

(To Marylin)

Is this a lover?

MARYLIN

Please!

MILES

And how would you define your relationship to Mrs. Rexroth. You know -- you are her...?

PATRICIA

Mother?

RUTH

What?!

Marylin sighs.

MILES

Her Mother?

Patricia smiles coyly. Gives Marylin a silly little wave by way of greeting.

PATRICIA

Hi, Sweetie.

MILES

Hard to believe I know. I'm sure you are frequently mistaken for sisters.

MARYLIN
(Mumbles)
He'll regret this.

MILES
Have you ever met Mr. Rexroth?

PATRICIA
No. I haven't. But I've been out of town.
(Little girlish wave)
Hello, Rex. Hello there.

MILES
You were never invited to meet your son-in-law?

PATRICIA
No. Uh uh. I don't think so. Hmm? No. Well... no.

RUTH
Objection, Your Honor. This isn't about Mrs. Rexroth's filial obligations.

JUDGE Sustained.

MILES
Did you know Mrs. Rexroth was married?

PATRICIA
Of course. Of course she was married. What else would she be? Single? I don't think so.

She laughs merrily at some private joke between her and her psyche.

PATRICIA
Let me tell you something about Patty.

MILES Who's "Patty."

PATRICIA
Oh. That's her name. Patricia. Like mine. I was Pat and she was Patty. But she changed it after seeing "Some Like It Hot." To Marylin. After Marylin Monroe.

MILES
I see. And what were you going to tell us about Patty slash Marylin?

PATRICIA
When she was a tiny girl? And people asked her what she wanted to be when she grew up? She never said the usual things little girls say -- like -- nurse -- ballerina -- anchorwoman?
She always said -- (Very Shirley Temple)
"When I grow up, I want to be divorced."

She laughs happily at the memory.

    MILES
Divorce was her childhood aspiration?

    PATRICIA
Well, not just divorce. She used to say "I want to be divorced from some big dumb rich guy..." And I guess her dream is coming true.
    (To Marylin)
I'm happy for you Patty

INT. SARAH SORKIN'S BEACH HOUSE - NIGHT

Pasta being cooked. Salad being tossed. Wine glasses are filled. It's Girl's Night at the beach.

    MARYLIN
It was like that scene in The Godfather. Frankie Pentangeli is called to testify against the Family.
And he's in court, and he looks into the spectators gallery, and sees his Brother. They brought the brother from Sicily. And Frankie can't say a word. He can't testify. That's what it was like seeing Pat in there. I couldn't even have Ruth cross examine her.

    RAMONA
Why do you think she did it?

    MARYLIN (Shrugs)
Maybe she wanted a free trip to LA.
Maybe they offered her money. Massey is very seductive. Who knows.

    RAMONA
Maybe they put a horse head in her bed?

    SARAH
That stinks. They left you with absolutely nothing. It makes you wonder about the entire legal system.
Like Rodney King.

    MARYLIN
They bought her speech. If I was only in it for Rex's money, he shouldn't have to give me any.
RAMONA
That doesn't make sense. It's like punishing you for being goal oriented.

SARAH
Well, you can live here as long as you want. Do you have any plans?

MARYLIN
Nothing specific, but I'll have my own place soon.

SARAH
So, Marylin. Is that what you said when you were a little girl?

MARYLIN
Probably. Every woman in my life was divorced at least twice. What was I supposed to say. Anthropologist?

RAMONA
I begged you to have a baby!

MARYLIN
In the Godfather, after the courtroom scene, Frankie Pentangeli opens his veins in the bathtub.

SARAH You're not...

MARYLIN
No. I'll see some blood before this is over, but it won't be mine.

CUT

TO:

INT. GIANT MOCK TUDOR - BEVERLY HILLS

Miles is at his weekly chess game with his college friend, DR. KENNETH BECK, a disaffected plastic surgeon. Miles, in hand, studies the board. Dr. Ken sips his Merlot.

MILES

KENNETH
So. I won't be seeing her? Your clients usually visit me after the settlement.

MILES
Not this one. Not unless her HMO covers plastic surgery, which, incidentally, she does not need.

KENNETH
Everyone needs plastic surgery. You need it.

MILES
I don't need it.

KENNETH
You want Botox?

MILES
What the hell is Botox?

KENNETH
It's a form of botulism. I just inject it into your forehead, and it paralyzes your eyebrows so you can't raise them...

MILES
Why in God's name would I want...?

KENNETH
No frown lines. (Notices Miles watch) New watch?

MILES
It's a LeCoultre Revers. You can flip the face, and set it for two time zones.

KENNETH

MILES
It was a gift from a client.

KENNETH
Set one side for Bel Air.

MILES
Botox. Christ. We had aspirations when we were in college.

KENNETH
We did not.

MILES
You were going to be a Cardiac Surgeon. I was going to clerk for the Supreme Court.

KENNETH
I was going to play golf. You were going to have Asian girlfriends.
MILES
Denial is not a river in Egypt.

Kenneth moves a chess piece.

KENNETH
You're in check.

MILES
I should be in therapy.

INT. MILES MASSEY'S OFFICE

Miles addresses BONNIE DONOVAN, a client.

MILES
Yes. Your husband did show remarkable foresight in taking those pictures. And, yes, absent a swimming pool, the presence of the pool man would appear to be suspicious. But Bonnie, who is the real victim here? Let me suggest the following. Your husband, who on a prior occasion slapped you -- beat you --

BONNIE (Reacts)
Well, I wouldn't say --

MILES
Your husband, who has beaten you -- repeatedly --

BONNIE He --

MILES
Please -- was at the time brandishing your firearm, trying in his rage to shoot an acquaintance -- friend of long standing --

BONNIE
They hate each other --

MILES
So he says now! But if not for your cool headed intervention, his tantrum might have ended this schmoe's life and ruined his own... As for the sexual indiscretion which he imagined had taken place, wasn't it in fact he who had been sleeping with the pool man?

He stares contemplatively at the ceiling and, after a beat, responds to the silence:

MILES
Am I going to far here?

A squawk box interrupts with a female voice.

VOICE
Mr. Massey, Mr. Meyerson would like to see you when you have a moment.

Miles is surprised.

MILES
Herb wants to see me?

VOICE
When you have a moment.

INT. OFFICE

Slatted shades are drawn against the sun. It is dim, gloomy. We can just make out the shape of an ancient man -- small, hunched -- seated behind an enormous desk. A gallows shape next to him is hard to make out; it is tall, rail thin and fixed with a swinging, glinting appendage.

A voice -- old, dry, rasping, lightly accented of a long-gone Brooklyn boyhood -- seems disembodied and sourceless, as if it is the voice of the gloom itself.

VOICE
Thoity-six objections sustained, tree overruled; fawteen summary judgements sought, toiteen ranite, eighteen movments to voice fuh respondent's prejudice, eighteen ranite which is a hunnut pissent

An arm is being extended toward us and the glinting appendage swings with it: we see that it is an IV which snakes down and into the hunched man's suit sleeve.

VOICE
-- Twelve cawt days on the Rexrawt case alone; tree hunut'n twenty billable hours paralegal solivcies; four hunnut'n two billable associate counsel and consultative; six hunnut'n eighty billable at full attorney rate and eightyfive lunches charged.

Miles takes the man's offered hand, withered and roped with veins, and accepts its clammy shake.

VOICE
-- Counseluh, you are the engine that drives this foim --

He leans back in his chair, breathing heavily, and runs a tongue over his sandpapery lips. He is wearing oversize Lazar style glasses, heavily tinted in spite of the dark.

At length

MILES
Thank you Herb.

INT. MILES OFFICE

Miles sits behind his desk, fingers steepled, staring at nothing, a haunted look on his face.

His intercom SQUAWKS:

VOICE
Mr. Massey --

MILES
Please! No calls! I'm feeling very fragile.

VOICE
I'm sorry, Mr. Massey, but I felt certain you'd want to know -- Marylin Rexroth wants to see you.

MILES
Marylin Rexroth? When does she --

VOICE
She's here now.

INT. PRIVATE BATHROOM

Miles runs his fingers through his hair, carefully examining himself in the mirror. Suavely smiling.

MILES
Marylin! How nice.

He clears his throat, begins again with lower pitch, suave smile still in place

MILES
Marylin! How lovely, uh --

He runs a finger across his teeth, which squeak, then puts back the suave smile

MILES
-- Marylin! What a pleasure --

DOORWAY
On Miles as he opens the door, suavely smiling.

MILES
Marylin, what a pleas -- who the fuck are you?

Facing him in the doorway is a large roughly handsome middle aged man in a business suit.

Just behind him is Marylin Rexroth, looking as coolly beautiful as ever. She smoothly puts in:

MARYLIN
Miles, how nice of you to see us -- may I introduce Howard D. Doyle of Doyle Oil.

DOYLE
I told you we know each other, baby. Mr. Massey represented my ex-brother-in law. Martin Reiser?

MILES
Oh. Right. Won't you have a seat?

DOYLE
(To Marylin)
After you, Doll.

Marylin glides into the office. Seats herself on the couch. Doyle sits next to her, one proprietary hand on her knee.

MILES
And how is Mrs. Reiser?

DOYLE
Few suicide attempts, little inpatient stint. Naturally, she misses her kids. Six weekends a year and alternate Yom Kippurs seemed harsh to us but -- hey -- all's fair. Anyhoo, she lives with a "nurse," takes her meds and goes to occupational therapy at a local sheltered workshop.

MILES
So she's uh, flourishing?

DOYLE
She makes felt wallets. Got one right here.

Doyle pulls out a deranged piece of felt stuffed with money. Most of the contents slip to the floor.
DOYLE
Yeah. I know. Leather would be more practical, but whatcha gonna do?

MARYLIN
Miles, I know you're busy and that you charge by the hour so I'll come to the point. Howard and I are planning to marry.

Miles is stunned.

MILES
Muh -- Well, uh -- Huh?

DOYLE
Yep. My divorce just came through. Shoulda called you. Coulda cut a better deal! My wife still has health insurance and gets to see the children. But, I don't know. Guess I'm just a softie. After all Amanda and me were together for -- what -- you'd know better than me, Marylin. She was your best friend.

MARYLIN (Thinks)
Sixteen years? Howard Jr. is fourteen and Mandy must be what -- twelve?

DOYLE
(To Miles)
(To Miles)
Here. Got pictures.

He removes a family photo from the felt wallet. It's of Howard and two fat teenagers. Apparently the former Mrs. Doyle cut out, but an ear and part of a hairdo are still visible in the shot.

MILES
I... uh guess congratulations are in order.

DOYLE
Well -- Marylin and Rex broke up and...

MARYLIN
Honey, I don't think this is really relevant to...

DOYLE
...and one day, this sweet girl calls me, asks me to lunch. Just a shoulder to cry on deal. One thing leads to another and before I know it --
MARYLIN
-- we realized we'd always been very attracted to one another.

MILES No!

DOYLE
I had no idea until after, but --

He looks at her with predatory lust.

DOYLE
Baby. You are so HOT!

MARYLIN (Coy) Howard!

He pulls her close to him and plants a massive kiss on her.

MILES
What a touching story.

DOYLE
You know, Miles, after my wife -- wife's mastectomy -- things were never the same. This might sound cold, well, maybe not to you, Massey, but...

(man to man)
I like my women with two boobs.

Miles flashes Marylin a "you are KIDDING" look, but she assiduously avoids eye contact.

MARYLIN
Howard and I are here, Miles, because I have learned through bitter experience that when it comes to matrimonial law, you are the very best.

Miles acknowledges this with a curt nod.

MARYLIN
As you are well aware, my previous marriage ended with an unjustified strain on my reputation My motives were questioned. I was slandered in court.

DOYLE
You did good, Massey!

MARYLIN
Therefore in an effort to remove any trace of suspicion from my sweet Howard -- I wish to execute a pre-nuptial agreement.
DOYLE
And -- there's no talking her out of it. Believe me, I've tried.

MARYLIN
They say the Massey pre-nup has never been penetrated.

DOYLE
She said "penetrate." Heh heh heh.

He gropes her. She giggles like a teenager.

MILES
Oh, for the love of...

MARYLIN
That is true, isn't it Miles? Your pre-nup is the best there is?

MILES
That is correct. Not to blow my own horn, but they devote an entire semester to it at Harvard Law.

DOYLE
Harvard? Whoa, Daddy!

MILES
I just want to make sure that you both --

He eyes Marylin.

MILES
-- understand what you're asking for here. The Massey pre-nup provides that in the event of a dissolution of the marriage for any reason, both parties shall leave it with whatever they brought in, and earned during. No one can profit from the marriage. The pre-nup protects the wealthier party.

DOYLE
Well -- at the moment, that'd be me.

MILES
And without it, that party is exposed -- a sitting duck. No wriggle room.

DOYLE
A Wriggle Room! Maybe we should put that in the Malibu house. Screw the screening room!

MILES
(slightly sickened)
-- and we are sure...
Eyes boring into Marylin.

MILES
-- we are both sure that's what we want?

MARYLIN Absolutely.

DOYLE
Course I can't do much "wriggling" if you tie me up like that again. Massey -- this is one bad bad little girl.

MARYLIN
(laughing)
We'd better go before we get thrown out.

ELEVATOR BANK

Marylin and Howard wait for an elevator as Miles trots out to catch them.

MILES
Excuse me, Mr. Doyle, if I could just borrow your charming fiancee for a moment.

DOYLE
What part?

MILES
I'd just like to have a word with her.

DOYLE
Why not? I'm going to have her for a lifetime.

Miles drags her to the side as Doyle checks his Sports Pager.

MILES
What are you doing?

She backs up as he tries to close the space between them.

MARYLIN
Getting married.

MILES
To him? He's a sick freak.

MARYLIN
He's passionate.

MILES
Passionate! He's a pervert. He should have to register when he moves.

MARYLIN
All girls enjoy a little rough trade from time to time.

MILES
Marylin! Listen to me.

MARYLIN
No. You listen to me.
(Very quiet and deliberate)
You busted me, Miles. You left me with nothing! What did you expect me to do? Get a degree in counseling? Write a book about table linen? Because that's what wives do when they get dumped, and frankly, I'm not quite ready for that.

MILES
But why him?

MARYLIN
We told you. We realized we've always been in love.

He has backed her against the wall of an alcove which shelters a flowering ficus.

MILES
The Massey pre-nup has never been pene -- successfully challenged.

MARYLIN
So I hear. Is that all?

MILES
No, that's not all.

He moves to kiss her.

MILES
You fascinate me.

She deftly slides out of the way. Miles watches her as she heads down the hall. As she gets on the elevator, Howard grabs her butt with one hand, while giving Miles a high sign with the other.

INT. HOWARD'S HOUSE - NIGHT

Miles stares at the chessboard.

MILES
Do you think I'm going to end up like Herb Myerson, with a colostomy bag instead of a family?

KENNETH
Got any symptoms?

MILES
Yes. The inability to experience pleasure.

KENNETH
Oh. That.
(beat)
Don't waste time with your queen.

MILES
What?

KENNETH
The Center Counter Defense. The thing is not to move your queen too early.

MILES
She can't really love that idiot, can she?

KENNETH What?

MILES
Marylin Rexroth. She came into my office and signed a pre-nup with Howard Doyle.

KENNETH Doyle Oil?
(Miles nods)
A Massey Pre-nup?
(Miles nods again)
She loves him.

MILES
He's the wrong man.

KENNETH
Miles! Don't waste time with someone else's queen, either.

EXT. A WEDDING BOWER - AKA CHUPPA

From behind the bower, RABBI BOLENSKY emerges, strumming his guitar and singing:

BOLENSKY
Parsley sage, rosemary and thyme --
Remember me to one who lives there...

A pullback reveals Howard D. Doyle before the altar with Marylin. He is in a tuxedo and yarmulke. She is dressed simple, Kennedy-type gown.

BOLENSKY
-- she once was a true love of mine.

The last arpeggiated chord rings out; birds tweet, everyone sits.

As Miles and Wrigley seat themselves, Wrigley is sniffling.

Miles is irritated.

MILES
What the hell is wrong with you?

WRIGLEY
I can't help it. Even with the business we're in, I -- it gets me every time. It's so -- optimistic.

MILES
Is she going through with it?

As the crowd quiets with the end of the song, Wrigley murmurs:

WRIGLEY
If she's not going through with it, she's cutting it awful close.

RABBI BOLENSKY
Parsley Sage Rosemary and Thyme.
Ingredients. Spices. Spicy ingredients for the banquet we call -- life.
Marriage is like a Great Feast. Courtship is the Appetizer. A small mixed green taste of things to come.
The Early Years -- The First Course -- a carefully poached fish dish dependent on freshness and delicate handling. Or perhaps a light pasta -- a tortellini stuffed with cheese and hope.

WRIGLEY
(Whispers, to Miles)
You have any gum or mints?

RABBI
The main course -- Mature Love -- a hearty stew, cooked slowly in the oven of companionship until the meat falls off the bone. And then -- dessert. The reward for years spent together -- the sweetness of a Life Well Lived. A sorbet of grandchildren, followed by the decafe demitasse of retirement.
There is silence, broken only by the twitter of birds and the restlessness of a hungry audience.

Finally:

RABBI BOLENKSY
Do you Chaim David Doyle, take Marylin to be the Barbara to your Wolfgang though the lean years as well as those that are heavily marbled?

DOYLE
I do.

RABBI BOLENKSY
And do you, Marylin Rexroth, take Chaim to be the roux in your bechamel? The stock in your sauce?

MARYLIN
I do.

MILES
Argh.

Heads turn. Miles bites a knuckle. Birds twitter.

RABBI BOLENKSY
Then, by the power vested in me by the state of California, and as the maitre'd in the Prix Fixe Four Star Restaurant of Life, I now pronounce you -- man and wife...

A kiss. Cheers. Applause.

A RECEPTION ON THE GROUNDS

Rabbi Bolensky strolls through the crowd with a heaping platter of smoked salmon.

Miles is darkly brooding as Wrigley opens a Tiffany box to show him the contents.

WRIGLEY
What do you think?

MILES
What are they?

WRIGLEY
Berry spoons.

MILES
Spoons! Honestly Wrigley, I'm surprised at you. What is this? Some Martha Stewart suggestion? Those are the most cockamamie things I've ever --

WRIGLEY
Miles -- why so angry?

Miles sounds wistful:

MILES
Why couldn't we be the club sandwich?

Ding Ding -- Howard D. is tapping a knife against his wine glass. The crowd quiets.

DOYLE
Ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls:
I have something to say to my bride.

Howard D. turns to one side to address Marylin, taking one of her hands between his paws, as she beams up at him.

DOYLE
-- Darling, like the rabbi said... life is a banquet, A Grand Bouffe, and Marylin, darling... I just want you to know that I am IN the kitchen and I CAN STAND THE HEAT!

Laughter from the gallery.

DOYLE
And I'm going to start this marriage by EATING MY WORDS. Because the hot hors d'oerve of this love story is -- Pre-nup Primavera!

He reaches into his breast pocket and withdraws a piece of paper.

DOYLE
Carmine! Bring on the Pesto!

A Caterer places a plate and a bowl of sauce in front of Doyle. Marylin looks on, surprised and bemused.

DOYLE
-- This is for you, darling.

He starts tearing strips off the piece of paper, dipping them into the sauce, and eating them. His mouth stuffed with paper, Doyle repeats:

DOYLE
-- this is for you, Darling.

The crowd is murmuring--the murmurs grow in volume -- a smattering of applause -- cheers -- more applause -- wild cheers. Slowly rhythmically, Miles starts thumping his hand together, nodding comprehension.
MILES Brilliant.

Next to him Wrigley is puzzled.

WRIGLEY
Why is he doing that?

Miles' hand-clapping accelerates.

MILES
Brilliant. It's brilliant. He's eating the pre-nup.

Wrigley's eyes widen. He looks back at Doyle eating the paper.

DOYLE
This is for you, Darling!

Wrigley bursts into tears.

WRIGLEY
That's -- the most romantic thing I've ever seen -- in my LIFE!

DOYLE
THIS IS FOR YOU, DARLING!

LATER
Marylin stands at the punch bowl accepting congratulations.

Miles approaches and draws her aside.

MILES
I'd like to offer my congratulations. That was a beautiful gesture of Howard's.

MARYLIN
Howard is a beautiful person.

MILES
Yes. He's a diamond in the rough. And I have a feeling that someday soon you'll be taking that diamond and leaving the rough.

MARYLIN
Miles. Miles. Miles.

MILES
I am thrilled for you, but tell me this... How'd you get Howard to do it? I've addressed enough juries to appreciate the power of suggestion, but it seemed like he thought it was his own idea.
MARYLIN
It was his idea. It was a gesture of love and trust. Be happy for me, Miles.

MILES
Well, when this goes south -- promise you'll have dinner with me?

MARYLIN
(She holds a plate of food for him)
Have you tried the duck?

MILES
I figure a couple of months. That's how long it should take for the ink on the settlement to dry.

He takes the plate of food from her.

MARYLIN
It has bones. Be sure to swallow one.

MILES
Although knowing you as I do -- there will be no settlement. This time it will be complete and total annihilation.

With a ROAR we CUT TO:

INT. LEAR JET COCKPIT

A uniformed pilot and copilot are cruising the corporate jet high above a vast ocean of clouds. The pilot is wearing a headset. After a long moment of listening he shakes his head.

PILOT
Jesus --

CO-PILOT
What --?

PILOT
-- I've heard some -- I've heard some sick things -- in my --

CO-PILOT
What?!

The pilot reaches above his head and throws a small switch and the cockpit is Awash with the sound of screaming, laughter and music:

MALE VOICE
Oh Casey Jones was the rounder's name, T'was on the 6:02 that he rode to fame!

INT. CABIN OF LEAR JET

Screaming with laughter, two naked damsels in conductor's caps are pushing Rex Rexroth around the cabin on a locomotive. He is wearing his railroad boxers and bellowing "The Ballad of Casey Jones."

BACK TO THE COCKPIT

CO-PILOT
Who is that guy?

PILOT
Rex Rexroth, the mini-mall king. Getting to be the richest man on the West Coast, from what they say.

The copilot shakes his head.

CO-PILOT
Jesus.

FROM THE SPEAKER
Hup! Come all you rounders if you wanna hear...

CO-PILOT
Why're they going to Muncie?

The pilot shrugs.

PILOT
He's thinking of buying Indiana.

EXTERIOR

WHOOOSH -- the plane roars away.

INT. MILES OFFICE

MILES
And of course we shall have to litigate. Sentence. Paragraph.

WIDER

A secretary seated by his desk is taking notes.

MILES
-- Naturally the first concern for both parties is the welfare of little Wendell junior. Nevertheless, we question whether the continuing expenses for his special ed classes are truly justified given the great strides --

Wrigley enters.

    Wrigley
    I'm sorry I'm late. I was having lunch with Ruth Rabinow's assistant. Guess what? Marylin Rexroth is divorced!

    Miles (Delighted) HA!

    Wrigley
    ...and I hear she's richer than Croesus.

    Miles
    Ah, but is she richer than Mrs. Croesus?

    Wrigley
    She could buy and sell you ten times over.

    Miles
    She deserves every penny. They pay great athletes a fortune. Well, Marylin Rexroth is an athlete at the peak of her power.

He hits the call button.

    Miles
    Get me Marylin Rexroth Doyle.

    Wrigley
    What...?

    Miles
    She owes me a meal.

    Wrigley
    I'd stay away from her, Miles.

    Miles
    I know you would, Wrigley. But would Kramer?

We hear the Receptionist Voice:

    Receptionist
    Mrs. Doyle for you.

INT. FANCY RESTAURANT

We move in on one of the tables where Marylin and Miles sit as a waiter pours them champagne.
WAITER

MILES
Thank you. I'll take care of it.

As he fill Marylin's glass: Raises his own in a toast.

MILES
To victory.

MARYLIN
I don't feel victorious Miles. I feel betrayed, abandoned and humiliated. I have pictures of him with another woman...

MILES
More pictures? My God, Marylin. You can open an erotic art gallery.

MARYLIN
Did you invite me here to score some cheap laughs.

MILES
No. Just to comfort you, and appreciate you --

MARYLIN
(Reproachfully)
You really think I engineered the whole thing. You think the marriage and the divorce was part of some scheme. You came here to celebrate because you think I'm without morality or soul. You --
(With difficulty) sound like my mother.

The Waiter hands Miles a menu.

WAITER
Should we order?

MARYLIN
Yes, I -- well, I'm not really...

MILES
Not hungry, huh? Neither am I.

A long pensive moment.

Miles reaches across the table and takes her hand. She lets him. He strokes it.

INT. CAR
Miles drives. Marylin sits silently looking out the window.
DOYLE MANSION

Miles pulls up to the huge house.

MARYLIN
Thank you. And good-night.

He takes her hand again.

MILES
Marylin --

She puts a finger to his lips.

Sadly, Miles relinquishes her hand.

She exits the car and walks up to the front door. Miles watches her go.

INT. BEDROOM - MASSEY MANSION

We hear Court TV on in the background. Miles alone in bed, reading Art In America.

ON THE TV

A Witness is being examined by the Prosecutor:

PROSECUTOR
...and he asked you if...?

WITNESS
..if I reckon I could find someone to keel him his wife.

PROSECUTOR
Who asked you this?

WITNESS
Dean Leonard. Da defendant. (Points to the defendant)
That guy!

CLAP OF THUNDER -- BOLT OF LIGHTNING

In a boiling night sky.

There are distant, echoing wails.

WOOZY DUTCH TRACK

Along a pointing suitcoated arm.

SANDPAPERY VOICE
Eighteen hunnut billable hours. Twelve hunnut'n twenty-one motions tuh void...
The woozy track finds the cadaverous hand at the end of the arm with an IV tube swinging from it. Miles stands next to the arm. He's holding an assault type weapon.

SANDPAPERY VOICE
...five nun nut'n sixty faw summary judgements. A hun nut'n twenty-nine thousand four hun nut'n seventeen lunches charged...

Miles shoots -- Bonnie falls. Then Mrs. Guttman. Marylin is next. Miles hesitates.

SANDPAPERY VOICE
Counseluh? Counseluh?

Miles points the gun at Herb.

RING. RING. RING.

MILES BEDROOM
He bolts up in bed, sweating.

RING
He gazes stuporously about, reaching for the ringing phone.

MILES
Hello?

MARYLIN Miles?

MILES
Yes? Marylin?

MARYLIN
You're right about me. I am worthless. I am nothing. I don't deserve to live.

MILES
Marylin? When did I say...?

MARYLIN
I don't blame them for betraying me. I don't blame Rex, or Howard or my father. You see, Miles, I'm going to tell you something about me. Something you may or may not know. I suck!

We hear the SCREECH of Tires.

MARYLIN
(yelling at someone)
Screw you, asswipe!
MILES
Marylin? Forgive me but are you -- drunk?

MARYLIN
A little.
(Scream)
You get out of the car. That's right, Fuctard. I'm talkin' to you!

MILES
You shouldn't be driving. Where are you?

MARYLIN
I'm on Sunset. Near the Beverly Hills hotel. Wanna meet me for a drink in the Polo...?

MILES
I live right near there. The 800
Block of Maple. Come here. Marylin -- come here right now before -- just come here.

MARYLIN
Okay. Should I stop at Starbucks and pick up a blended for --

MILES
No. Don't stop.

MARYLIN
Okay Miles.

INT. DEN - MASSEY MANSION
Marylin sits in the den. She's had some coffee and, although tear and disheveled, is no longer psychotic.

MARYLIN
I just cried when I got home. Somehow, your disdain for me -- I'm pretty tough Miles, but I'm human. All my life people have been ascribing these terrible motives to me. I used to think they were jealous, or they didn't understand, but... I dunno.
Maybe others see something in me.
Something I'm not even aware of.
Anyway, thank you for letting me come here. I guess I was a little drunk.

She takes the coffee cup and has a sip. She looks like a lost waif.

MARYLIN
You have a very nice home, Miles.
Very inviting.

MILES

Thank you.

MARYLIN

You have wonderful art. I love that lithograph. Hockney?

MILES

Yes. I just got that, actually. It was a gift.

MARYLIN

From a -- girlfriend.

MILES

No. No. I don't have a... no. It was from a client.

MARYLIN

No kidding. I'll bet you have some very grateful clients. What'd Rex buy you?

MILES

Rex sent me two humidors full of pre-Castro Cubans.

Marylin looks at a photograph Miles has on a side table. A WOMAN AND TWO SMALL BOYS.

The Woman has her arm around one of them. The other stands close to her. Smiling, but awkward and tentative.

MARYLIN

Is that you?

MILES

Me. Yes.

MARYLIN

Oh. And that is -- mom?

MILES

Yeah. Mom. Mom and brother.

MARYLIN

You look like you were a very sensitive child. You have expressive eyes.

Miles walks over to look at the picture.

MILES

Hmmm...

MARYLIN

And your mother was very beautiful.
She must be proud of you.

MILES
She never particularly cared for me.

MARYLIN
She didn't love you?

MILES
No. She loved me. She would never not love her son. She just didn't... I wasn't her "type." She said I was a very, colicky baby. You know? Difficult. Not a good sleeper? Didn't eat well? We got off to a bad start, and she never seemed to recoup --

MARYLIN
She held that against you?

MILES
Apparently she was very disappointed.

MARYLIN
Boy. Boy, oh boy.

Marylin looks at the picture again. And yes -- you can see how hesitant Miles was. Marylin is moved. A flash of something genuine crosses her face.

MARYLIN
And here I thought my mother was...

MILES
Your mother was.

MARYLIN
Oh right. You met Patricia.

She takes a sip of coffee. Regards Miles.

MARYLIN
We're damaged goods.

MILES
No, we're not!

MARYLIN
We are, Miles. You know I'm right. There's something "off" about you and me Miles. And maybe it isn't because of these women -- maybe they were just extremely insightful and recognized our "deficiencies" very early on. Maybe...

MILES
That is bullshit! Mine is a bitch and yours is a psycho. I can't believe you're saying this, Marylin! There's nothing wrong with us. We're attractive and charismatic and successful and... I like us.

MARYLIN
I'm sorry Miles. You shouldn't listen to me. I'm sure you have a very fulfilling life. I'd better go. I'm depressing.

MILES No.

MARYLIN
Thank you for the coffee. It's very robust.

She stands. Picks up her purse. Walks over to him with an outstretched hand.

MARYLIN Friends?

MILES
Don't go. Stay with me for a while.

He doesn't release her hand. Instead he draws her to him, and kisses her. She kisses him. He kisses her back.

She...

TO:

INT. BEDROOM - NIGHT
Mile and Marylin -- making love.

LATER
They are in post coital wrap.

MILES
I have to say -- I'm speechless. No. I'm never speechless.

MARYLIN
I'm a little embarrassed. I'm not used to losing control with such -- volume.

MILES
And I'm not used to -- Marylin -- there's something I want to ask you.

MARYLIN
What is it Miles?

MILES
I want... I want to...
She waits, puzzled.

MILES
I want to be your -- your wife.

MARYLIN Huh?

MILES
No... That wasn't right. I want YOU to be MY wife.

MARYLIN
Did you just propose to me?

MILES
Yes. I am. What else could those words mean? I believe we belong together and we can make one another happy. And we should be happy because happiness is better than the alternative which is -- just jump in any old time, Marylin. You have more experience at this than I do.

MARYLIN
Yes.

MILES
Yes? Yes, you do have more experience?

MARYLIN
Yes, Miles. I accept.

MILES
You do?

MARYLIN
Do you want me to sleep on it?

MILES No.

MARYLIN
Do you want to sleep on it?

MILES
No ma'am. I have been asleep all my life up to this moment. Marylin, will you marry me?

MARYLIN
Yes. Again.

They kiss.

MILES
I don't have a ring!

MARYLIN
I know.
I have a watch.

She laughs. Kisses him.

I'm happy.

Miles and Kenneth wait. Dressed in suits. Miles looks nervous.

I'm happy for you, pal.

Thanks, buddy.

Is she Asian?

Asian? No.

Well... I'm still...

Wrigley, rushes in, carrying a briefcase.

Miles.

Wrigley?

Miles.

Kenneth this is my associate, Wrigley. Wrigley this is my friend, Dr. Beck.

The plastic surgeon! I read about you in LA Style.

Do you have it?

I have it.

You have the pre-nup?

No. I have the ring. Was I supposed to have a pre-nup?

No. You have the ring. Wrigley has the pre-nup.
KENNETH
Oh. I thought maybe --
(He sees someone) Gee!

Marylin enters. She looks outstanding. Her friends, Sarah Sorkin and Ramona Barcelona (who is now visibly pregnant) accompany her.

SARAH Dr. Beck!

KENNETH
Sarah! How are you?

MILES
You know each other? Of course you do.

RAMONA
You're Dr. Beck? I have an appointment to see you in March. Right after I lose the babyweight. Which of course, will be after I have the baby...

MARYLIN
Sarah Sorkin. Ramona Barcelona -- this is Miles Massey.

SARAH Hello Miles.

RAMONA
Congratulations Miles.

MILES
Hi. Hello.
(To Marylin)
Marylin. You know my young associate, Wrigley.

MARYLIN
I do. He was at my divorce and my wedding. What would a marital related event be without Wrigley?

WRIGLEY
It has become a tradition, hasn't it?

MARYLIN
I loved the berry spoons.
(Wrigley beams)
I didn't have any. Thank you.

MILES
Well, Wrigley brought something else for you today, darling.

Wrigley pulls a sheaf of papers from the briefcase.
Wrigley hastily pulls a ballpoint from his pocket and clicks it. Miles grabs the pre-nup, and as he turns to Marylin, his tone softens.

MILES
Marylin, you're welcome to examine it, but as you know -- it's iron clad.

SARAH
It is. It's famous.

WRIGLEY
I tried to reach Ruth, but we couldn't get her.

MILES
We wanted Ruth here for your protection as well --

WRIGLEY
The Judge is here. Over here, Judge Munson.

MARYLIN
Wasn't she the Judge at my divorce hearing?

MILES
Yes. Short notice you know, but I think there's nice closure to it. Hello Judge Muson. A pleasure as always.

JUDGE MUNSON
What's up with you two.

MILES
We're getting married.

Judge laughs.

JUDGE MUNSON
What's the gag?

MILES
A gag? No.

Marylin looks at the pre-nup. Then pulls Miles aside.

MARYLIN
Excuse me, Judge Muson.

JUDGE
You got it, Patty.
MARYLIN
(To Miles)
You brought a pre-nup to our wedding?

MILES
Yes.
(She isn't having the expected reaction)
It's for your protection, sweetheart. You're the one with the -- the...

WRIGLEY
-- the coin?

MARYLIN
Miles. I don't want to sign this. I want this marriage to be different. Okay. Judge Munsen and Wrigley are here, but other than that...

JUDGE
Should I go out for a smoke?

MILES
No. Judge -- just a sec. But Marylin, if we sign it, I can't hope to benefit from the marriage.

MARYLIN
(Sadly)
Oh Miles!

MILES
What I mean is, your wealth is completely protected.

As if a lead veil had been drawn across. She looks deep into his eyes. Into his soul.

MARYLIN
Miles. Listen to me. You are about to become my husband. I don't want to be protected from you. I want to be protected for you.

WRIGLEY (Moved) Ohhh...

MILES But?

MARYLIN
I want this to be a marriage based on love, trust and community property. That's all I've ever wanted.

SARAH
But Marylin, without this, you're completely exposed.

MARYLIN
I want to be exposed.

RAMONA
You're vulnerable.

MARYLIN
It's about time.

JUDGE
You're a sitting duck.

MARYLIN
(To Miles, with great affection) Quack.

INT. CHAPEL

Miles and Marylin stand before the alter.

JUDGE MUNSON
Do you, Miles Herbert Massey of Massey Meyerson take Marylin Hamilton-Rexroth-Doyle?

MARYLIN
Yes.

JUDGE MUNSON
"Doyle", to be your lawful wedded wife to --

MILES
I do, yah I do, uh huh --

JUDGE MUNSON
Let me finish!

She glares at Miles.

JUDGE MUNSON
-- Jesus! Haven't you ever been married before?

Chastened, Miles bows his head.

JUDGE MUNSON
-- To have and hold, to love and to cherish, till death do you part?

There is a long beat, through which Miles stares at his shoes.

Marylin looks at him.

MILES
-- I do.
JUDGE MUNSON
And do you, Marylin Hamilton-Rexroth Doyle, take Miles Herbert Massey of Massey Meyerson, to be your lawful wedded husband, to have and to hold, to love and to cherish, till death do you part?

MARYLIN
I do.

JUDGE MUNSON
I now pronounce you man and wife.

Wrigley bursts into tears.

THE MARRIED MASSEY MONTAGE

TO:

INT. MASSEY HOUSE - MORNING

Miles and Marylin asleep in bed. The ALARM RINGS. Miles wakes, turns to his beautiful wife -- kisses her good morning. She gives him a sleepy Smile. Miles dressing for work. Marylin, in a Sabia Rosa bathrobe places a tray with coffee next to him. He holds up two ties for her-approval. She selects one. He puts it on. Miles and Marylin reading Newspapers while eating breakfast. She serves him a bowl of fruit and indicates Wrigley's berry spoons. They laugh heartily. Marylin waves good bye as Miles backs drives to the office.

THE MARRIED MASSEY MONTAGE

MILES OFFICE

He has managed to fill his credenza with pictures of married life. Due to its brevity -- these pictures are uneventful, the Massey's wear the same outfit in most of them. Miles works. He is interrupted by the voice of his SECRETARY.

SECRETARY
I have Mrs. Massey on line one for you.
Miles picks up.

MILES

Mom...?

He laughs and laughs. We hear Marylin's laughter coming through the receiver.

Miles exits a flower store with a bouquet of tulips.

Marylin at the doorway, greets Miles as he arrives home.

As Miles changes into his casual after work outfit,

Marylin sits at the edge of the bed. He's telling her about his day, and she is rapt with attention.

The Massey's have a candlelit dinner of fish and pasta.

tulips are in the middle of the table.

Miles and Marylin snuggle on a couch and watch Seinfeld.

Miles in bed on the new Frette Linen. A few too many pillows, and but he's making it work. Marylin enters the bedroom in a nightshirt that is the perfect combination of innocence

and nastiness. He puts down his book as she gets into bed with and

They gaze at one another -- the picture of contentment

and impending lust.

CLICK - LIGHTS OUT

EXT. MASSEY MYERSON - CONFERENCE ROOM - DAY

Miles is addressing the young associates.

MILES

For the first time in my life, I stand before you naked...

vulnerable... and in love. Love. A word matrimonial lawyers shy away from. Ironic isn't it -- that I have been frightened of this emotion which is, in a sense, the seed of my livelihood. But today, I am here to tell you: Love should cause us no fear. Love should cause us no shame.

Love... is good.

(He lets it sink in)

Let me ask you a question. When our clients come to us confused, angry, hurt because their flame of love is fluttering and threatens to die -- should we seek to extinguish that flame, so that we can sift through the smoldering wreckage for our paltry reward? Or should we seek to fan this precious flame -- this most precious flame -- back to loving, roaring life?

The young associates look confused. Wrigley raises his hand.

WRIGLEY
Extinguish?

MILES
Should we counsel fear -- or trust?
Should we seek to destroy -- or to build? Should we meet our clients' problems with cynicism -- or with love?

MILES (another raised hand) Kramer?

KRAMER Build?

MILES
The decision of course, is each of ours. For my part, I have made the leap of love, and there is no going back --

Herb Myserson sits in the back of the room. He watches, breathing heavily.

INT. DEN - MASSEY HOUSE

Miles and Marylin watching a cable movie crowded together on the small sofa.

MARYLIN
I'm sorry. I'm squishing you. I'll move to the...

MILES
No. Stay. I want you close to me.
This couch is wrong. It's not a "married couch."

He surveys his surroundings with a critical eye.

MARYLIN
Honey, I could sit...

MILES
In fact, this is not a married house -- it's a bachelor pad.

MARYLIN
Hardly. You have six bedrooms.

MILES
I know. But I've converted most of them into ridiculous "Guy" rooms -- a billiard room, a card room, a gym -- Honey, want you to go out, as soon as you feel up to it -- and buy married things. Woman things. Personalize it. Marylinize it. Make this your house.

He hands her a credit card.

MILES
Here's my card. Spend as much as you want. We get mileage.

MARYLIN
Well, I suppose I could "girly" it up for you with a little Fortuny, and some passementerie --

MILES Good.
(Beat)
Are those foods?

MARYLIN
Fabric and fringe.

MILES
Exactly. And then -- maybe -- not right away -- There's a room right off the bedroom -- It would be perfect for a nursery.
(He takes her hands)
It's a walk in humidor right now -- but if I took out the refrigeration unit --

MARYLIN Miles.

MILES
I think a nursery should be right off the master suite. My parents put mine in the guest house. Apparently they did have a Fisher Price intercom, but my mother turned it off when I was seven months old because I was so --

She stops him with a kiss.

MILES
You want children, don't you?

INT. QUATRAIN ANTIQUES - DAY

A pricey antique store near Melrose.
RAMONA
You said 'yes' didn't you?

MARYLIN
I said yes.

She picks up an antique Chinese bowl.

MARYLIN
Is this Ming?

SARAH
It's not Ming. It's Tong.

RAMONA
Is Tong older than Ming?

MARYLIN
I think Ming is older than Tong.
(To the Salesman hovering nearby)
What is this?

SALESMAN
That is a Chinese Prayer Bowl. It's Chen dynasty.

MARYLIN
Ok. I'll take it.

He sets it aside next to the formidable pile of loot the girls have accumulated.

MARYLIN
I can't do this anymore. Let's get some lunch.

SARAH
What about rugs? I thought we were stopping at Mansour?

MARYLIN Right.

SALESMAN
(To Marylin)
And will this be check or --?

She hands him the Platinum Visa.

SALESMAN
(Glances at it)
Very good, Mrs. Massey.

He trots off with the card.

Marylin absently fingers an antique guided candelabra.

MARYLIN
(Sigh)
Well. He said to "make the house mine."

RAMONA
Oh boy. If he only knew.

MARYLIN
Yeah. I guess. You know --

SARAH What?

MARYLIN
He's not what I expected. He's very -- he's so -- happy.

SARAH
But you're going through with it?

MARYLIN
Yes, yes, it's just -- you know I've never been the first wife. Rex was married before me.

SARAH
So what?

MARYLIN
Miles is different. He's still so idealist.

SARAH
Well, that's about to change big time.

MARYLIN
He has no cynicism or anger. For once I'm not the repository of rage at some other woman.

SARAH
Soon, you'll have your own rage!

MARYLIN
I guess.

INT. FLOWER STORE - EVENING

Miles is buying a huge bouquet of flowers. As he exits he is stopped by a WOMAN. She is in her 40's but looks older.

WOMAN
Wait. I know you.

MILES
Yes?

WOMAN
You're Miles Massey! You probably don't recognize me. The drugs made me put on weight and grow facial hair.

MILES
Excuse me?

WOMAN
You ruined my life you sonofabitch. Gimme those.

She grabs the flowers. Pulls petal off one of the roses and eats it.

WOMAN
But my brother got you. He got you, you slimeball.

A NURSE runs over.

NURSE Emily!

MILES
What are you...
(To the nurse)
Is she yours?

WOMAN
Howard Doyle is my brother? You know my brother, Howard Doyle. You do know my brother, don't you?

NURSE
I'm sorry, Sir. Emily. Give the man back.

MILES
Yes, I know Howard Doyle.

WOMAN
He tricked you. With a phony wife and a fake pre-nup. Howard Doyle. He got you. You married Marylin, didn't you? You thought she had money. HA HA HA. Howard Doyle made you think that because of what you did to me. And to Marylin Rexroth. Yeah. I heard all about it. My brother Howard Doyle got you.

(singsong)
Neener neener neener.

INT. RUTH RABINOW'S OFFICE

Ruth calmly watches Miles ranting around her office.

MILES
He divorced his wife -- he married Marylin -- he divorced Marylin -- and he -- remarried his WIFE? What Kind of sick --

RUTH
Marylin was friends with Howard and Amanda Doyle. They don't like the way you operate. They helped her.

MILES
He never ate the pre-nup, did he!

RUTH
I have no idea what Howard Doyle eats. I'm not a damn dietician.

MILES
Did Marylin end up with money?

RUTH
She's YOUR wife. Why don't you ask her? Anyway, I assume she signed the highly over rated Massey pre-nup.

MILES
I don't have a pre-nup

Miles hangs his head. Ruth sighs sympathetically.

RUTH
...The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars...

MILES
Don't give me that crap. That's MY crap.

RUTH
And it's good!

MILES
I'll have you suspended. I'll have you disbarred.

RUTH
Don't threaten me, Miles. I did nothing illegal.

MILES
...why did she do it, Ruth? Why?

RUTH
That's attorney client privilege. (As she goes back into her work) Sorry, Miles. But as a great and clever man once said, What's good for the goose --

INT. MASSEY HOUSE - NIGHT

Marylin greets him at the door.
MARYLIN
Hi.

MILES
Hello Marylin.

MARYLIN
I have a surprise for you.

MILES
I bet.

She brings him inside. The place has been massively accessorized. Antiques, rugs, lamps and assorted tasteful chatchkies. There is a new Biedermeyer couch in the den.

MARYLIN
Ta Da.

Miles looks at it, expressionless.

MARYLIN
You don't like it?

He stares at her -- a very dark look.

MARYLIN
You don't like me?

MILES (Flatly)
I love you. I want to have your baby.

MARYLIN
What's wrong Miles? Did I spend too much?

She retrieves all the receipts from her purse.

MARYLIN
Miles. I have a very good relationship with all the salesmen. I can return everything.

MILES
Can you Marylin? Can you return the trust? Can you return the hopes? The dreams? Can you just...
(Bitterly)
SEND IT ALL BACK FOR STORE CREDIT?

MARYLIN
Miles? You're scaring me.

MILES
(Pulls himself together)
I'm sorry, Darling. I love it. It's chic and timeless and elegant and eclectic and. It's you, Marylin. It is YOU.
INT. KITCHEN

Marylin is on the phone with Ruth.

MARYLIN
But Ruth -- things have changed -- yes -- yes I understand. But you see -- I couldn't file, did I? And maybe I wasn't going to file. Maybe -- maybe Ruth -- Yes. Okay.

OUTSIDE BEDROOM - MASSEY HOUSE - NIGHT

The bedroom door is closed. Marylin knocks repeatedly.

MARYLIN
Miles? Open the door, Miles. Please open the door. I want to talk to you. Miles? I'm coming in. Here I come.

She pushes the door open. No Miles in sight. On the bed, scrawled on a piece of mMm stationery, taped to one of the mMm Frette pillows -- a note which reads -- "If you prick us, do we not bleed? If you tickle us, do we not laugh?
you poison us, do we not die? AND IF YOU WRONG US SHALL NOT REVENGE?"

INT. KENNETH'S HOUSE

Kenneth stares at the chessboard. Court TV is on the background.

TV SCREEN

COURT TV REPORTER
We are back at the Trial of New Jersey v. Medrano. Mr. is accused of killing his wife, Alicia in 1992. He claims was suicide. Let's return to the courtroom.

See the action in the courtroom --
The Prosecutor shows the jury an extremely large handgun.

PROSECUTOR
How far would this gun have to be in order to inflict a wound without leaving powder burns on the scalp.

EXPERT WITNESS
Approximately three feet.

PROSECUTOR
And how could Mrs. Medrano shoot herself in the back of the head from a distance of three feet?

KENNETH
Really long arms?

He moves a piece.

MILES
They won't get a conviction. The husband called it in as a suicide. The forensic guys weren't thinking murder. I'm sure some of the evidence was compromised.

KENNETH
It's your move, Miles.

MILES
(Sadly)
I already made my move, Kenneth.

INT. MASSEY HOUSE

A private yoga class. Marylin, Sarah and Ramona are in plow position. The yuppie Sikh instructor places his weight on Sarah.

SARAH
Vishu! Knock it off. That hurts.

VISHNU
Breathe through it.

Sarah tries a few deep breaths. Marylin concentrates hard.

VISHNU
That's good, Marylin.

MARYLIN
I don't even know where he is. He looked so devastated. If I could just talk to him for a few minutes.

SFX DOORBELL

MARYLIN
Was that the bell?

RAMONA
It sounded like a bell.

MARYLIN
I'll be right back.

INT. HALLWAY - MASSEY HOUSE

Marylin walks to the door. Opens it. Two POLICE OFFICERS.
MARYLIN
Yes? Can I help you?

POLICE OFFICER
Marylin Hamilton Rexroth Doyle Massey?

MARYLIN
Yes.

POLICE OFFICER
We have a warrant for your arrest.

MARYLIN
What?

INT. POLICE STATION - MONTAGE - DAY
Marylin is photographed front and profile. She is fingerprinted; she is searched and relieved of her jewelry; and finally, she is throw into a holding tank with several other women -- trapped. She clings despondently to the bars.

INT. POLICE STATION - DAY
Ruth is admitted to the holding area.

INT. HOLDING TANK - DAY
A Police Officer walks down the hall. Unlocks the door.

POLICE OFFICER
You can go now, Mrs. Massey. Someone made bail.

Marylin exits.

INT. RUTH'S CAR
Marylin sits next to Ruth.

MARYLIN
Forgery and Fraud?

RUTH
You used his credit card.

MARYLIN
He told me to -- he said he wanted me to --

RUTH
Quite a little shopping spree. How do you spend six figures in less than six hours? Oh, never mind I've seen it before. I've seen everything.

MARYLIN
Do you think he set me up? Do you think that was his intention?
RUTH
Like I know his intention? Or yours for that matter?
(Sighs)
I should join Sam. I'm too old for this bullshit.

MARYLIN
He never even asked. He just assumed --

RUTH
He was right, wasn't he?

MARYLIN
So. Now what?

RUTH
Now? Well, Marylin, now you cut a deal or find out how Jean Harris made it work for her.

INT. MASSEY HOUSE - DAY

Miles opens the door. Marylin is standing there.

MILES
Well. Well. Well. Look who made bail!

MARYLIN
May I come in?

MILES
I don't know. Maybe I should grab my mace. I'm a civil attorney. I have little experience with "the criminal mind."

MARYLIN
I'd just like to pick up a few of my things

MILES
I don't believe you have "things."

MARYLIN
On the contrary. We're married and we have no pre-nup, so a case could be made that everything in here is mine.

Marylin walks into the den. Sits on the new sofa.

MARYLIN Comfy!

MILES
What do you want?

MARYLIN
I want to nail you ass.
MILES
Are you threatening me, because I'm sure that's a violation of the terms of your bail.

MARYLIN
I'm reporting you to the IRS.

MILES
The IRS? They owe me. I'm expecting a refund.

He laughs. She looks at him, dead serious.

MILES
I'm clean with the IRS. I've reported every dollar I've ever made. Try again, girlfriend.

MARYLIN
I'm not talking about dollars, studmuffin. I'm talking about --

She opens a humidor and takes out a Cigar.

MARYLIN STUFF.
(Chomping on the Cigar)
Got a light?

MILES
What kind of "stuff?"

She reaches into her purse. Pulls out a Dunhill and expertly lights the cigar.

MARYLIN
Arty Party stuff.
(Pointing to the Hockney)
Lithographs and pre Castro Cubans. Watches and mileage on private jets. Stuff, Miles. Stuff you get from grateful clients.

MILES
Those are gifts.

MARYLIN
Salary. Unreported income.
(Glancing at his watch)
By the way, what time IS it on Bellagio Road?

MILES
You can't prove anything.

MARYLIN
I don't have to. That's what the IRS guys do. And they do it with great zeal. See, they work at these tortuous civil service jobs, and when five hundred dollar an hour boys like you take their trade out in luxury goodies, these saps feel... well, they feel like saps. And they feel bitter and they feel vengeful and they feel WRATH.

(Puffing on the cigar)
What is this? A Romeo and Julieta?

MILES
You're out of your league, Marylin. Rexroth was a primate. I'm a professional.

MARYLIN
I know. So am I, right? And so is Agent Wilson of the Internal Revenue Service. He's a dedicated, underpaid graduate of Southwestern University -- very tenacious, and never more so than when he's dealing with an unscrupulous colleague.

(She stands to leave)
I think it's only fair to warn you: I'm going to file an action, Miles. And after a decent interval I plan to have Ruth seek an injunction that will forbid your approach within 500 feet of my house.

MILES
Meaning my house.

MARYLIN
I believe the residence will be part of the settlement.

MILES
Did our marriage ever mean anything to you?

MARYLIN
Drop the bogus forgery charge and I'll forget about your generous friends slash clients.

MILES
That's blackmail.

MARYLIN
That's marriage.

She gives him a peck on the cheek. As she leaves:

MARYLIN
You'll always be my favorite husband.

Miles sits dejectedly on the new sofa looking at the paintings. He looks at the watch. And the cigars. And the
MILES
Pity you can't be here. You'd enjoy this.

CLOSE ON A BAG OF FLUIDS

We pull back from the milky yellowish bag of fluid to show that a nurse is unhooking and removing it from under Herb Meyerson's wheelchair where it collects drainage.

She now places it up on the IV gantry and connects, and swaps the now empty drip under the wheelchair to collect drainage.

We are once again in Herb Meyerson's gloomy office, its venetians blocking most of the light and making Herb a dark, enigmatic figure.

HERB
This woman has humbled, shamed and disgraced the entire firm.

A reverse shows Miles standing in front of Herb's desk.

MILES
Yes Herb,

HERB
Counseluh, this firm deals in powuh. This firm deals in p'seption. This firm cannot prospuh... nor long endowwa. if it is p'seeved as dancin' to the music..

He waves his free arm to the beat of music unheard.

HERB
-- of the hoidy-goidy.

MILES
I understand Herb... I just... for the first time in my career -- I don't know what to do. I'm a patsy. A sitting duck. I'm lost.

HERB
Lost! I'll tell you what you can do, you can --

He brings himself up short and turns to the nurse.

HERB
-- leave us.

She heads for the door.

HERB
-- You can act like a man. Let me tell you sumpn, smart guy. You tawt you had it all figgud out. Trust.
Marriage. All ya goddamn love love love. Well now you lisSean me. I'm gonna talk to you about the goddamn LAW.

He climbs unsteadily to his feet and tries to pace, gesticulating, with the IV swaying dangerously behind him.

HERB
-- We SOIVE THE LAW! We HONUH the law! We make our goddamn bread and BUTTUH by the law! And sometimes, counseluh, we OBEY THE LAW --

He pauses to let this sink in.

HERB
-- but counseluh -- This is not one a those times.

CLOSE ON
An edgy looking gangster, JOE. He is perspiring heavily. He breathes through his mouth with the rasping wheeze of an asthmatic.

His labored breath rattles as he stares across the table someone off. At length, a voice:

VOICE

...Are you Joe?

Still staring, but perhaps by way of answer, the gangster raises an inhaler, sticks it in his mouth, and squeezes. WHUSH.

GANGSTER

...Dumbarton?

A reverse shows Miles seated across a small round table in a seedy low-lit clam house. Photos of Ted Kennedy and the Pope adorn the walls.

MILES

I am here representing Mr. Dumbarton, on a... matter of some delicacy.

GANGSTER

Who's the pigeon?

MILES

Excuse me?

GANGSTER

Who do you want me to kill?

MILES

Well -- I, uh, that is to say Mr. Dumbarton -- would like you to uh, neutralize a, uh, business associate by the name of Marylin Rexroth Doyle Massey uh Dumbart -- uh, Massey.

GANGSTER

Is that... one person?

Here's her picture...

He is shoving an envelope across the table.

MILES

...and the address where she's staying. It's the residence of a Mr. Massey. Uh, Dumbarton. Massey. Uh, it's not Mr. Dumbarton's house. Though he's not involved. And because of an impending legal action this needs to happen within a certain... time frame.
Uh... on an expedited basis.

The gangster stares expressionlessly. He raises the inhaler again and, with his eyes still on Miles, squeezes. WHUSH.

GANGSTER
You're in a rush.

MILES
Mr. Dumbarton is, yes.

A long beat. Finally, Miles explodes

MILES
She won't suffer, will she?

He bites a knuckle, gazing fearfully at the gangster. The gangster stares impassively back.

GANGSTER
...not unless you pay extra.

INT. REX REXROTH MANSION

An enormous oak paneled room. Furnished with chairs sofas and a huge circular bed. A fire roars in the far corner.

On the wall above the bed a film loop is being projected -- soft core pornographic images.

On the bed, Rex is surrounded by three naked beauties, in cola dust and wearing conductor caps.

REX
I've been working on the railroad --

TARTS
All the livelong day!

REX
I've been working on the railroad

TARTS
Just to pass the time away!

REX
Can'tcha hear the whistle... the whistle... AWWWWWWW.

Rex hunches over, clutching his left arm.

One by one, the girls stop dancing and stare. There is a somber silence, broken by another.

REX AWWWWWW --

The girls are all watching now. One of them steps forward.

TART
-- Whatsa matter, Rexie?

INT. KENNETH'S HOUSE

A guest room. Dark, dirty and filled with empty bottles of expensive French wine.

We hear a phone ringing in a different room. It rings several times.

The figure on the bed stirs, rolls over, moans, clamps a pillow over his head.

The ring of the distant telephone is interrupted and we hear a muffled voice:

VOICE
Hello. Yes, he's here. Just a minute --

We hear approaching footsteps and Kenneth enters the background, knotting a bathrobe. He turns on the light in the room.

KENNETH Miles. It's for you.

The figure on the couch pulls away the pillow. It is indeed Miles Massey. He blearily takes the offered phone.

MILES
Hello. Yes -- what?! Yes -- I see --

After another listening beat he drops the phone away. He remains staring dully out into space.

MILES
My God.

KENNETH What?

MILES
That was Marvin Untermeyer.

KENNETH Yes?

MILES
He was Rex Rexroth's personal attorney.

KENNETH
What do you mean, was.
MILES
Rex just had a massive coronary. In the middle of a business meeting. He's dead.

Kenneth is mildly puzzled.

KENNETH
I'm sorry to hear that. But you weren't close, were you?

MILES
Marvin says that Rex's will is four years old. He never redrafted it.

KENNETH
Yes.

Miles voice is still flat, expressionless:

MILES
Everything goes to Marylin.

He looks up a at Kenneth.

MILES
She's rich. We're still married. We have no pre-nup.

KENNETH
So, that's good, right?

MINUTES LATER
Miles paces with the telephone. He punches numbers with the thumb of the hand holding the phone; his other hand holds a coffee cup from which he takes trembling slurps.

VOICE
This is Joe. Wuddya need?

Then a beep.

MILES
Joe. This is Mr. uh... friend of -- we met. This is to instruct you it's No Go! Do you understand me?! NO GO on Marylin Rexroth Doyle -- No Go.

He slams down the phone.

KENNETH
Who was that?

MILES
That was -- oh, shit. What if he's on his way over there?

KENNETH
Consumed with remorse, Miles moans.

MILES
Marylin! What have I done?

KENNETH
I don't know, but don't call me Marylin.

MILES CAR

Miles drives, speeding, taking corners hard while punching numbers into his car phone.

MILES
Get her out, buy some time; get her out --

INT. MASSEY MANSION - NIGHT

In the bedroom, the phone starts ringing. A hand enters to pick it up. We follow the hand up to reveal

MARYLIN
Hello?

MILES SPEEDING CAR

MILES
Marylin?

MARYLIN
Miles? Miles! Where have you been? I've been trying to get in touch.

MILES
You have to leave the house immediately!

MARYLIN
I will, Miles. I will leave. But Miles --

MILES

MARYLIN
Just listen to me. I'm sorry, Miles. It's true that my initial intention was to...

MILES
Please! Leave the house.

MARYLIN
I fell in love Miles.
MILES
So did I. Now pack up a few basics and --

MARYLIN
You do? You do love me?

MASSEY MANSION

Marylin hangs up the phone.

She walks slowly around the room, pausing at the mantelpiece to pick up a framed picture of Miles, which she contemplatively regards.

We pan with her continued walk to bring Joe into frame. He stands with his back pressed to the wall. She's started a moment, but quickly recoups:

MARYLIN
Whoever sent you, I'll pay double.

JOE
Mr. Dumbarton.

She shows him the picture of Miles.

MARYLIN
Is this Mr. Dumbarton?

JOE
No...

She cocks an eye at him.

JOE
That's his lawyer.

MARYLIN Triple!

JOE
Who's the pigeon?

We faintly hear a car screeching to a halt.

EXT. MASSEY MANSION

Massey exits the car. He clutches a can of mace.

INT. MANSION

We hear a key scrape in the lock. The front door swings open onto a dark foyer as Miles tiptoes in.

MILES (Whispers) Marilyn?

DINING ROOM

Miles tiptoes through, looking warily about. He backs through the swinging doors connecting to the kitchen. Finds himself face to face with Joe.

MILES
Joe! Thank God you're in time. You're not in time. I'm in time. Thank God I'm in time.

Joe stares at him.

MILES
It's a no go! Get it? No one any the wiser. Okay!

He makes a cow-herding motion with his hands.

MILES
You can go home now! Goodbye! Thanks so much!

Joe takes out his gun.

MILES
No no! No contract! It's all over.

This has no effect on Joe who is unscrewing his silencer. Miles is exasperated. Suddenly -- Marylin appears.

MARYLIN
It's a no go, Joe.

MILES
Marylin!

MARYLIN
It's okay Joe.

Joe glances at both of them with barely concealed contempt.

MILES
Wait! He works for YOU?

MARYLIN
Now. But first, he worked for you.

MILES
You were going to have this thug...?

MARYLIN
Wait just a second there. You sent him here. You unearthed this pestilence.
JOE
You're calling me a pestilence? That's a hoot!

MARYLIN
(To Joe)
I'm sorry. That was unkind and -- but, we changed our minds.
(To Miles)
Did you really mean what you said on the phone. It wasn't because you found out about Rex?

MILES
Nonono. Marylin -- I'm your husband. I'd be entitled to Rex's money. No matter what happened to you.

MARYLIN
That's true.

JOE
Lemme tell you something. You are the pestilence. I'm the exterminator.

MARYLIN
Oh Joe, be happy for us. I'll pay you the twenty thousand.

MILES
It was fifty for you.

JOE
(To Miles)
That's cause you're a lawyer. I gave her the lawyer discount.
(Looks at Marylin)
But I shouldn't of. Cause you're a whore. A whore who worships the dollar.

MARYLIN
Well, actually, all whores worship the dollar, if you want to get technical.

JOE
Shut up. I was a lawyer. Just like you. And my clients? Whores just like you.

MILES
Were you with a firm?

JOE Kaplan.

MILES
You were great -- we studied you.

JOE

Twenty years in "matrimonial law" and it made me sick.

(He wheezes)
I broke up homes and families, never givin' it a second thought. Till one day. I had an epiphany. You know what that is?

(They nod)
Came with a damn stigmata if you can believe that! I said to myself --
Joe -- everyone you see wants blood.
Everyone wants their ex's dead. So why jerk around with rest. You wanna best serve your clients? Kill em.

Joe is raising the gun at Miles. Miles sprays him with Mace.

BANG -- Joe fires blindly, scrunching his eyes against the chemical, sucking for breath like a jet engine revving take-off.

SLAM -- Marylin elbows him in the face, breaking his nose.

but

She finishes with a solid groin kick. It slows him down, doesn't stop him.

Joe stumbles a bit, but regains his footing.

BANG -- Joe is rampaging around the room, still firing, thumping at his chest with his free hand for his inhaler.
Marylin runs to Miles. He takes her hand and they run toward the door, seeking egress.

BANG -- still firing, he pulls out the inhaler but blindly bobbles it.

Joe reaches with his gun hand to keep the inhaler from falling. He momentarily bobbles both gun and inhaler.

Miles pops up in front of him.

MILES

MARYLIN
I'm not leaving you. I took self defense

Joe recovers and raises the gun to his mouth as he points

the inhaler at Miles.

He squeezes -- WHUSH -- Miles squints against the asthma mist and lets out a horrified:

MILES

Joe!

BANG! The off-screen gunshot is followed by the sound of a body dropping heavily to the floor.

Silence.

Marylin runs over to Miles. They look sadly down at the floor.

MILES

WE told him it was no go...

INT. MASSEY MYERSON CONFERENCE ROOM - DAY

Wrigley sits bouncing the steepled fingers of one hand against the other.

Miles sits gazing sadly out the window.

The room is empty.

There is the whir of ventilation.

The click of the door attracts both their attention and brings them to their feet.

Marylin walks in, chic and beautiful as ever, followed by Ruth, who sits next to her, places her attaché case on the table top, and snaps its clasps.

RUTH

Alright.

WRIGLEY

Ruth.

Miles and Marylin are looking at each other. Quietly:

MILES

Hello Marylin.

MARYLIN

Hello Miles.

MILES

Hard to believe this is the way it will end up for us.

MARYLIN

It's not something I wanted either.

MILES

But then -- I guess -- something inside me died when I realized that you'd hired a goon to kill me.

MARYLIN
Yes. I know. It's exactly how I felt when I realized you'd hired the goon to kill...

RUTH
Now you both wait a minute. Nobody hired anyone to kill anyone.

WRIGLEY
Hear, hear.

There is an uncomfortable shifting in seats. Wrigley looks at Miles.

WRIGLEY
Apparently, from what I can gather, a burglar broke into your house -- became despondent over his lifestyle and shot himself.

Miles is still looking at Marylin.

MILES
Where does that leave us?

RUTH
We've outlined a settlement...

She pushes a piece of paper across the table.

RUTH
We think it's more than generous.

Miles ignores the paper, which lies unclaimed on the middle of the table. He looks at Marylin.

WRIGLEY
My client is prepared to consider a reconciliation.

Marylin looks a Miles.

MARYLIN
How could I trust you, after... after all of this.

Miles, staring at Marylin, cuts in:

MILES
You wounded me first, Marylin.

MARYLIN
Your forgetting Rex Rexroth?

MILES
You're forgetting Howard Doyle?

MARYLIN
Forgery? Fraud?

MILES
Income tax evasion?

MARYLIN Murder?

MILES Murder!

MARYLIN
I don't see how we can ever find our way back from...

Miles, with his eyes still on Marylin, reaches into his suit coat. He withdraws a piece of paper, spreads it flat on the table in front of him and, still gazing at her:

MILES
You know... there's nothing in the Massey pre-nup that says it can't be executed after the parties wed.

He decisively clicks the button on a ballpoint pen, looks down at the paper in front of him and scribbles his name. He pushes the paper across the table toward Marylin.

Gazing at him, seeking the truth in his eyes, she absently picks up the paper.

There is a long silence. We hear only the hum of ventilation, and Wrigley's quiet snuffling.

Ruth is looking down her nose through her glasses -- over Marylin's shoulder -- at the sheet of paper. Marylin however, looks only at Miles.

RUTH
It's the Massey pre-nup --

Marylin rips the paper in half.

RUTH (bored)
O-kay. I'm going back to the office

Wrigley sobs openly.

RUTH
Come on Wrigley, I'll buy you a drink and an anti depressant.
WRIGLEY
No one will ever love me that way.

RUTH
Not if you're lucky. No.

Miles rises slowly to his feet.
He puts his knuckles on the tabletop and leans forward.
Marylin rises slowly to her feet.
She leans forward.
They kiss.

MILES
Let's go home.

EXT. MASSEY HOUSE - DAY
We hear a SMASHING -- BREAKING.
Gardeners look up briefly from the leaf blowing -- but quickly prioritize and continue blasting sycamore leaves from one end of the yard to the other.

TRACK THROUGH HOUSE TO
INT. MASSEY BEDROOM
The smashing is becoming louder.
AN AXE
Breaks the beautiful wood panelling in the room next to the master suite.

MILES
Wait. Just wait for one minute. Sweet Jesus, are you crazy?

CONSTRUCTION WORKER LOOKS UP
he's the one wielding the axe. His co-worker casts a look in our direction.

MILES reaches under the rubble and removes one box of Cohiba Especials.

CONSTRUCTION WORKER
Sorry, Mr. Massey. Thought you cleared that shit out.

CONSTRUCTION WORKER #2
You know, man... those things'll kill ya. I know all you old boomer potheads like em. They're illegal, and you get to put em in fancy boxes -- but -- shit man! It's still tobacco.

ON MARYLIN

Mightily pregnant.

MARYLIN
You know, sweets, he’s right.

Miles casts a rueful look at the cigars.

MILES
Pre-Castro.

MARYLIN
Fine. They were created during a dictatorship.

(Placing a protective hand on her BIG belly)

What if something happened to you? What would I tell little Gus when he asked "what was my daddy like?"

Miles looks at the box, then at his wife. He tosses the box to the concerned construction worker.

MILES
Here, buddy. These are for you.

The construction worker gives him a very hostile look.

CONSTRUCTION WORKER
(Mumbles)
Great. Now I can die.

MILES
Well. You’d say "they devoted a whole semester at Harvard to your Dad. But your Mom was the one that ever only nailed his ass."

MARYLIN Sweet.

MILES
I thought so.

OUT: FADE

THE END
